the battlefield of the femilist movement. Years ago there were no public schools for little children. The majority of women did not want them. Gained by the few, however, they were accepted gladly and no woman would give them up. So it was with the movement that resulted in woman acquiring the right to a college education and to professional training. Then came the question of property rights in Connecticut. When a man married he solemnly declared: "With all my worldly goods of his wife instead. In 1877 the law governing property rights was passed. MRS. M. TOSCAN BENNETT Addressee Meeting of W. C. T. U. Her Theme Equal Suffrage.

At the regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. Friday afternoon, Mrs. M. Toscan Bennett of Hartford, treasurer of the Woman's Equal Suffrage association, lectured to an enthusiastic audience on Woman Suffrage. Mrs. Bennett stated briefly that suffrage was not new but the result of an evolutionary process that dated back to the initial struggle of the first woman protestant against the subservience of protestant against the subservience of woman to man. Suffrage is not violent antagonism to man, but an effort for personal uplift and stimulus; it is the battlefield of the feminist movement.

Suffrage is the next step. Some men believe in suffrage, but do not think it expedient. Inexpediency is the bugcear that retards any progressive WANTS AUTO-CHEMICAL. Business Men's Association Asks City Council to Call Meeting That Matter May Be Decided.

The Putnam Business Men's association at a meeting in I. O. O. F. hall, E. M. Wheaton, presiding passed upon several very important matters, the most important being discussion on fire equipment.

Recently the association, seeing that some action was necessary, sent a resolution to the city council, recomdo serious damage to property in that vicinity. One theory as to how the fire alarm the fire started is by a spark system, procure new coats and boots from the boiler of a well driving apparatus that passed along the street. One means adopted to stop the spread of the fire alarm street. One means adopted to stop the spread of the fire was ploughing, this proving effective.

Joy, an associate Puts Out Fire and Kills Snake. member of the fire department, and owner of local garage directly besides the engine house, had volunteered to drive the machine, and had that one of his experienced men would officiate in his place. Mr. Joy doing this for the next two or three years, just to help out a good cause.

Result Shows Economy. Middletown reported a cost of four horses for a four year period to have been nearly four thousand dollars, thus showing that the cost of oper-sting and maintaining the machine to have been much less than the horse drawn machine. The results obtained by getting to the fire in one-half or a quarter of the time, thus getting control before the fire gained great headway, were much more to their estimation.

Several recent fires here have been what is termed "Chemical Pires" that s they could have been more effectu-ally handled with chemicals, and the result in loss by water would have been practically eleminated.

The proposed machine would have a tank with capacity of eighty gallons, and carries a ladder with extension, approximately thirty feet long, some 1,200 hundred feet of regular hose, as well as two or three hundred feet of hose for chemicals, also carry ries hand chemicals, and has carry-ing capacity of eight or ten men. It is also suggested installing a few more "tappers" in homes of firemen, so that they would not be dependent upon fire alarm bells, for their "call."
